

INTERNSHIP: THE GLOBAL LEADERSHIP NETWORK

QLF OFFICE, MONTREAL, QUEBEC

The Quebec-Labrador Foundation (QLF) is seeking two Interns (university undergraduate or graduate students) to work on the Global Leadership Network. Interns will be based in Montréal, Québec. The Global Leadership Network or GLN is QLF's Network of 5,000 Alumni (former Volunteers, Interns, and International Fellows), and Partner Organizations representing 75 countries and six regions: QLF's home region (eastern Canada and New England); Europe; Central and Southeast Europe and the Balkans; Latin America and the Caribbean; Middle East, North Africa, and the Gulf States; and Southeast Asia. We are engaging our Network via online meetings and workshops, and through a virtual platform, the GLN Online, an interactive website designed to enhance collaboration between Alumni on a global level. GLN Online is a secure, dynamic, interactive website with a comprehensive database that, for the first time in QLF's history, maps QLF Alumni across the globe.

The goal of the GLN is to mobilize the efforts of an extraordinary group of community and conservation leaders (Alumni) allowing them to share knowledge and conservation innovation; launch programs, program partnerships and teams of consultants with Alumni; share resources and best practices; convene conservation and stewardship practitioners online; establish teams of GLN Consultants to catalyze action and address common challenges and opportunities in rural communities worldwide; and link to multiple conservation networks worldwide. This position requires communication skills. GLN Interns will interview Alumni and write bios and stories about QLF Alumni (in English). These articles will be posted on QLF's website and the GLN Online. GLN Interns will also assist in managing data entry as Alumni sign onto the site; interview Alumni and feature their work and accomplishments each week; assist in directing webinars and online meetings; and assist in facilitating new partnerships and consulting teams among conservation leaders in communities worldwide. QLF is seeking a smart individual who is willing to work hard. Must be an excellent writer and editor; and capable of implementing a program and its evaluation.

Dates of summer Internship: TBD May 2018 – July 2018
